

A one-stop, easily accessible online portal for cancer care information, professional development resources & learning activities for all health professionals, trainees & students

www.cancerlearning.gov.au

Find Learning Activities

Access current information about:

Latest treatments and evidence-based medicine

Improving supportive and psychosocial care

Optimising multidisciplinary care

Fundamentals of oncology

Integrating coordinated cancer care

Build Educational Programs

Be guided by the Cancer Professional Development Framework and Professional Development Framework for Cancer Nursing to design your own programs, resources, activities and evaluations.

Plan Professional Development

Draft a professional development plan, referring to sample pathways for nurses, dietitians, physiotherapists, social workers, clinical researchers, radiation therapists, data managers, occupational therapists and pharmacists.

Access:

Case-based EdCaN learning resources and activities to support the development of core competencies and key skills in cancer care for nurses and other allied health professionals

Contribute:

Submit resources you have developed or use in your own practice to share with other cancer care professionals

More Information:

Contact Cancer Learning: info@cancerlearning.gov.au

“This is a valuable, high quality resource that will enhance evidence-based practice. The site is uncluttered, aesthetically easy on the eye, simple to navigate and contains useful educational resources and links.” - Feedback from a Cancer Nurse

Cancer Learning is an initiative of Cancer Australia developed by a consortium comprising:

